

EDWIN JOHN WINTLE

Breakfast With Tiffany

113 Age 43
Mustworthiness Wintle's new memoir, recounting how the gay writer came to raise 13-year-old niece Tiffany, is one of the most unconventional—and heart-warming—parenting guides ever. Confessions of a Teenage Drama Queen “[Tiffany and I] are obviously a bit similar; I hope that comes across in the book,” he says. “We’re both kind of dramatic.” What did he learn from his niece? “It’s possible to watch TV, talk on the phone, eat, and paint your toenails all at the same time.” She’s No Audrey Hepburn, But... “[One reviewer] pointed out that she’s as complex as a Tiffany glass.” Next The Breakfast film. Wish Upon a Star Wintle has some casting fantasies for that gay uncle role: “John Cusack, Kevin Bacon, and, of course, Johnny Depp.”
